IV. JUDGING

Competitors will be judged on posing as well as physical appearance during both the individual and comparison rounds. Both rounds will consist of quarter turns (symmetry) and mandatory poses (muscularity).

- INDIVIDUAL ROUND: During prejudging, each pair of competitors will be called out to center stage where they will stand feet flat, heels touching, arms to their side, and head facing front. The head judge will ask the pairs to perform quarter turns first. The quarter turns consist of facing front, quarter turn facing right, quarter turn facing backstage, and quarter facing left. The head judge will ask the pairs to complete a series of mandatory poses. Athletes will be judged on muscularity, conditioning and symmetry, a display of overall shape and muscle balance, vascularity, separation, and striation. All poses must be performed properly and in a timely manner to avoid penalties.
- COMPARISON ROUND: Once all pairs of competitors have completed their individual rounds, the head judge will call random pair numbers to line up center stage where quarter turn and mandatory posing comparisons will be performed. Finally, the head judge will call all competitors to return to center stage in numerical order for a last look to ensure proper judging and placement.
- EVENING PRESENTATION: Competitors will be called to center stage in pairs to strike a pose and proceed to stage right/left to line up. The expediter will direct each competitor where to stand until all competitors have been presented. All competitors will then leave the stage. Each pair will pose to a 90-second routine to their chosen music. Pairs must present a polished, entertaining routine where each athlete moves together as one with smooth transitions between poses. Judges are looking for – posing ability (a polished routine that shows each athletes physique and their ability to blend, flow, and work together as one unit), presentation – includes matching posing costumes and tans, and physique – as outlined in GBO criteria. Posing music must be on a CD and must be the only music on that CD (house music is available if needed). Posing music may not contain any vulgar, racial, or sexual lyrics.
